Corrupted Control Collapse.

Earlier this month, South Korean officials met at the national assembly to vote on a decision that sent shockwaves across the globe. South Korean president Park Geun-hye was impeached after countless allegations were investigated.

The decided impeachment makes the first female president of South Korea also the first female president to be impeached with 78% of South Koreans agreeing with her impeachment.

Running the country since 2013, the now vacant role of ruling the country has been handed over to the acting prime minister of South Korea, Hwang Kyo-ahn until the sudden presidential election declares a new president.

Some of the allegations that caused Park Geun-hye to be impeached mainly come from her shady business with Park Geun-hye's aide Choi Soon-sil who had secured funds from several business' for two fake charities linked to Park Geun-hye. The money gained from the charities was shared between Park and Choi to benefit their private life. One of the most noted details of Park's share was to fund her daughter's equestrian lessons in order to secure her in one of South Korea's highest rated schools.

The collapse of Park Geun-hye's presidency has raised major concerns in the international community. The US has already halted further production of their planned missile defines system situated in South Korea which gained negative responses from China who saw the proposed missile defines as an aggressive action against China.

Regardless, while Park Geun-hye presidency has ended amidst corruption the South Korean Parliament has been reported to be working as normal.
